A new Salisbury City Centre

The City of Salisbury and project partners Buildtec and Catcorp are progressing plans for the exciting $200 million redevelopment of the Salisbury City Centre.

The redevelopment includes more than 200 new homes, a hotel, a free multi-deck carpark, a premium supermarket, and retail and commercial spaces on mixed-use sites across two hectares of council land.

The project is currently before the State Commission Assessment Panel, with planning approval anticipated by mid-2025 and development approval expected later in the year.

Detailed planning is underway on staging of the construction works and consultation with stakeholders on managing the impact of construction on businesses and visitors to the Salisbury City Centre.

Leasing opportunities within Stage 1 are now available. This includes high-quality commercial tenancies across ground floor street frontages and upper floor spaces to cater for a diverse range of businesses.

Fostering local art and culture

The Create a Place public art project is transforming public spaces with striking street art. The latest murals at Paralowie Village Shopping Centre add colour and vibrancy to the community.

In partnership with Paralowie Village Shopping Centre as part of The Village Wall project, artists Jimmy C and Malicious Delicious were commissioned to create two large-scale murals celebrating the diversity and energy of our City. Their works have turned a once-blank wall into a local landmark.

These new artworks bring vibrant public art to the area, encourage visitors to see the beauty of our city and inspire the community to get involved with art.

Earlier this year, the City of Salisbury sought community input on a plan to shape the future of local art and culture. The Arts and Culture Development Plan is currently being drafted and will support festivals and events, live music, exhibitions, heritage preservation and arts programs.

Images: Murals at Paralowie Village Shopping Centre created by artists Malicious Delicious (top) and Jimmy C (bottom)

‘Street art adds so much character to an urban setting, and a blank wall opposite a school was the perfect opportunity to create something inspiring and engaging.’

Jeevan, Paralowie Village Shopping Centre spokesperson

Our local businesses growing stronger with Polaris by their side

With the right guidance and support, businesses can turn ambition into remarkable success.

The City of Salisbury's Polaris Business Development Centre has helped countless entrepreneurs refine their strategies, develop their skills, and navigate challenges to achieve their goals.

Coiltek Manufacturing's Managing Director, Natalie, has worked tirelessly to grow her business — one of Australia's leading metal detector coil manufacturers, based in Salisbury South.

A long-term client of Polaris, she engaged in several programs that strengthened her leadership and business skills. Her innovation and dedication earned her the 2024 Women in Innovation Awards' Fearless Innovator Grant, recognising her achievements in business growth and leadership.

Another client of Polaris, Rory and Louise, started with a small lunch bar in 2003. Through hard work and smart decision-making, they expanded it into a thriving business with 60 employees by 2010. But they didn't stop there.

With support from Polaris' business mentoring programs, they refined their operations and identified a strong niche — catering and school canteen management.

Today, Rory's Group is a $14 million enterprise with headquarters in Cavan, employing nearly 200 people and providing nutritious meals to more than 78 schools across South Australia.

Their successes demonstrate how Polaris helps business owners build on their strengths and take their ventures to the next level.

Contact the Polaris Business Development Centre for help with your business, including mentoring, workshops and networking.

Celebrating 25 years of growth and friendship

The Salisbury Garden Club is celebrating a remarkable milestone this year — 25 years of cultivating not just plants, but also deep friendships and a sense of community.

Thanks to the dedication of its members, the Salisbury Garden Club has grown over two decades into a hub of warmth, knowledge, and support. Barbara, the club's secretary for over 15 years, and Sophie, a long-time member, shared how the group has become a place for connection.

'It's more than just gardening. It's a place to learn, share, and catch up.'

Barbara, Club Secretary

The club has welcomed a diverse group of members, all united by their love of gardening. They host talks from guest speakers, hold plant sales, and go on bus trips to explore unique gardens. The club also gives back to the community, fundraising for causes like Backpacks 4 Kids and Australia's Biggest Morning Tea.

In addition to gardening activities, the club provides a supportive social environment, where members can share advice, laugh over a cup of tea or coffee, and enjoy raffles and morning teas.

The club meets on the second Tuesday of each month at Bagster Road Community Centre and new members are welcome to attend.

A shining light for sustainability

The City of Salisbury has installed wildlife-friendly lighting along the Little Para River Trail.

The new lighting improves nighttime visibility for trail users while protecting local wildlife.

The innovative PC Amber lights show the way for walkers and cyclists. In avoiding the use of blue light, they don't impact nocturnal wildlife that rely on moon cycles and are active when it's dark.

The lights are low energy and cost effective, with minimal environmental footprint and will improve safety for all trail users.

This new lighting is just one part of Council's ongoing efforts to include sustainable practices in projects and upgrades wherever possible, showing how small changes can make a big difference for the community and the environment.

'Good lighting design should balance the needs of all users of the trail, including animals.'

Michael, Energy and Lighting Specialist, City of Salisbury

Salisbury's youth initiatives in action

City of Salisbury is implementing its Youth Action Plan 2024-2027, with a strong initial focus on mental health.

The first major initiative of the Youth Action Plan has been the launch of a pilot program at Salisbury's Twelve25 Youth Centre, offering free mental health support for young people aged 12 to 25.

A qualified headspace worker will provide free one-on-one consultations four days a week at Twelve25 to support with mental health and wellbeing, physical and sexual health, work and study, and alcohol and other drug use. Young people can access up to four free sessions for general mental health support without a doctor's referral and will be connected to additional support services if needed.

'Mental health support can sometimes feel out of reach, but now young people have the opportunity to access free, confidential support at the Twelve25 Youth Centre right in the heart of Salisbury. This initiative brings peace of mind knowing help is there for young people.'

Kyna, headspace Youth Reference Group

Meanwhile, the 2025 ROAR Youth Summit, held during Youth Week at the Salisbury Community Hub, brought more than 150 local young people together for workshops, inspiring guest speaker presentations, and opportunities to shape future initiatives.

The summit, which will become an annual event, was held along with a Youth Market, where a number of young entrepreneurs showcased their businesses and gained valuable entrepreneurial skills.

Council is also planning a trial of MindMatters — a school-based program to train students and teachers to understand the signs of poor mental health and provide strategies to support themselves and others. If successful, it could expand to more schools, sporting clubs, and community groups.

A range of targeted initiatives and programs will be rolled out over the next three years to support our local youth, with a focus on health and wellbeing, educational engagement, and equity, discrimination and unfair treatment.

'This plan is built on what we heard from young people — it's about listening, acting, and delivering real outcomes that support the wellbeing and future success of our City's young people. This is just the beginning.'

Mayor Gillian Aldridge OAM
