About me

Hello there, I am Bella and it's very nice to meet you. I have just recently come to stay here at the pound for a while with my sister. I am only a young girl still trying to learn the ways of the world. Before coming here, I was quite nervous and did not like the lead at all, as I had never seen one before. I soon learned that the lead is exciting because it means I get to go on walks and play outside and do puppy things. I am learning how to sit and call when I hear my name. Now because I am just learning all this for the first time I am going to need you to keep training me at home so I don't forget anything.

I am quite placid in nature; they tell me all the time what a good girl I am too.

I have met other dogs while I have been here. I have not had much experience in meeting other dogs before and I am learning proper dog manners and have been told I am doing very well.

I can be handled quite well, although my behaviourist that came to meet me said I did all the right things but because I am so young and still learning everything brand new, that my new family needs to keep up with my training to help me build my confidence a bit more. I can still get a little worried about new things, but I warm up to everything very quickly.

So if you want to help me grow into a beautiful young lady, please come to meet me. If you have another dog at home please ask to bring them with you so we can meet as well.
