About me
Hey there, I am Wednesday and it is my pleasure to meet you. I have had a bit of a rough start to life, but I have a feeling this is about to change. I was recently found roaming the scrub with no home and no family. For two weeks I was out in heat and sometimes the cold. There was a bunch of people that had seen me around and wanted to help, but of course I had to play hard to get didn't I, I was a little afraid of why these people were trying to catch me. After 2 weeks and they finally out smarted me, it was then and only then that I realised they were trying to help me. Now since being here all the carers have shown me lots of things on how the world should really be, and the best thing that they have shown me is that I deserve a great happy life just like any other dog. I love my carers a lot, I wouldn't be here without them all. I was worried and a little scared at first so it may take me a little bit to get use to new people but when I know you then I am all yours hahahaha. I have met other dogs here too and I love that, I can be a little too eager to skip the formalities and get right into running around and playing with them, but they are showing me manners first, I have picked this up very well, so they have no problems with me being with other dogs. Due to my shyness at first, I will be better suited with a family with older kids, maybe not toddler type. If you have a dog at home please ask to bring them with you so they can meet me too. For the rough start I had, my carers think I have done amazing and I am ready to go back into the big wide world again – but attached to a leash this time. No more living off the land for me.
